★ Prince William Cavalry Rides Again! Brentsville Sesquicentennial Civil War Weekend and Cavalry Ride to Manassas

10:00a.m. – 6:00p.m.

In April 1861, residents of Prince William County met in Brentsville and voted to endorse Virginia's secession from the United States. That same month, several military units were formed in Brentsville to prepare for the defense of Virginia. On the 150th anniversary of this event, come to Brentsville to relive and learn about this tragic time in our history. Witness a debate over secession in the Courthouse, watch the citizens of Brentsville present the Prince William Cavalry with a new flag and watch loved ones say good bye to those going off to war. Explore the camps and watch military demonstrations throughout the day. Then at 3 p.m., watch the Prince William Cavalry ride off to the Manassas Museum. Welcome the riders at the Manassas Museum and see the unveiling of the museum exhibit on the Prince William Cavalry. This program is co-sponsored by the Manassas Museum, Prince William County Historic Preservation Division and the 4th Virginia Cavalry, Inc. www.pwcgov.org/historicsites and www.visitmanassas.org

★ Lecture Series—First Blood, Battle of Blackburn's Ford

7:00p.m. Free, donations appreciated

Before the more renowned Battle of First Manassas, the Northern and Southern armies would fight a few days before in a small battle five miles from the more famous battlefield. This battle, at the time, was one of the bloodiest days in American history. It was seen by the Confederates as a resounding "victory" and a "bungle" by the Union. The impact of this battle would set the stage for the Battle of First Manassas. Speaker to be decided. Old Manassas Courthouse, 9248 Lee Avenue, Manassas, VA 20110. 703-367-7872. www.pwcgov.org/historicsites

★ Lecture Series—United States Marines at First Manassas

7:00p.m. Free, donations appreciated

Abraham Lincoln, in describing the soldiers of the armies both north and south, said, "you are green yes but so are they. You are all green together." This would be a very good description of the U.S. Marines from Washington Barracks who marched into battle as infantry on the 21st of July 1861. Many of these men were to experience combat for the first time on the plains of Manassas and several were only weeks into training when the battle of 1st Manassas was fought.

How would they perform? Join Gunnery Sergeant Thomas E. Williams of the United States Marine Corps Historical Company to explore the answers to these and other questions. Old Manassas Courthouse, 9248 Lee Avenue, Manassas, VA 20110 703-367-7872. www.pwcgov.org/historicsites

★ You Are There: July, 1861, the Pringle House Confederate Field Hospital

6:30p.m. – 8:00p.m. $10 per adult; $5 children to age 15.

On July 21, 1861, the Civil War came to Prince William County when two untrained and inexperienced armies waged a bloody contest near Bull Run. As the Federal army fled to the safety of Washington, it left in its wake thousands of casualties on both sides. Virtually every barn, shed, and house in the vicinity was requisitioned for the care of the wounded and the dying. One such place is the Ben Lomond house, known as the Pringle House during the war. This daunting and grim task of caring for an unprecedented number of wounded fell upon the fledgling Confederate medical department. How effective will its response be to this extraordinary undertaking? How will local citizens cope with the carnage and disruption to their lives? What will be the reaction of the troubled and worried families of soldiers back home? Answers to these questions and more will be explored in this special first-person interpretive program using concepts from the award winning 1950's You Are There television show hosted by Walter Cronkite. Due to the mature theme, this program may be inappropriate for children less than 11 years of age. Ben Lomond Historic Site, 10321 Sudley Manor Road, Manassas, VA 20109. 703-367-7872. www.pwcgov.org/historicsites
